

BEATEN QUEST ACCUSES WOMAN OF BLACKMAIL

Marie Meyers and Her Pugilistic Boarder Held on Hoganamp's Charge.

GREENIN IN HOSPITAL.

Friend Who Accompanied Jersey Fire Chief on Visit Has Fractured Skull.

Herein are described the adventures in a great city of Alfred B. Hoganamp and Edward L. Greenin, the two most influential and wealthy citizens of Hillsdale, N. J., which numerous metropolitan rests somewhere back of Hudsonville. At the present writer Mr. Greenin is in New York Hospital, coming recently at the ceiling, with his head thickly padded with bandages, and Mr. Hoganamp is wounding his reluctant way to Hillsdale, N. J., to square himself with his wife. Mr. Greenin has a wife, too, but she is away from Hillsdale somewhere visiting relatives.

Incidental to the recital of the present whereabouts and mental conditions of Mr. Greenin and Mr. Hoganamp it may be stated that Miss Marie Meyers, of No. 24 West Twenty-fifth street, is occupying the cell de luxe in Jefferson Market Court prison, being unable to secure $100 bail which binds her to appear and answer to a charge of attempting to blackmail Mr. Hoganamp.

Mr. White is Held, Too.

And Mr. William H. White, also of No. 24 West Twenty-fifth street—a boarder, in fact, in the home of Miss Marie Meyers and her sister Alice—is in Jefferson Market Court prison, men's side, held without any bail whatever on a charge of feloniously assaulting Mr. Greenin.

From this brief introduction it may be inferred that the adventures in a great city of Mr. Hoganamp and Mr. Greenin were in some way involved with Miss Marie Meyers and Mr. William H. White. Said inference is correct. It was a big night, last night, for all the four persons mentioned, but Mr. Greenin and Mr. Hoganamp will hear about it longer than will Miss Marie Meyers and Mr. White.

Perhaps it would be best to frame this recital in the simple language of Mr. Hoganamp. Miss Marie Meyers and Mr. William H. White, Mr. Greenin being unable to speak coherently because of a depression in his skull which has done something to his brain.

The statements of Mr. Hoganamp, Miss Marie Meyers and Mr. William H. White were made in Jefferson Market Police Court today when all were arraigned on counter-charges of assault.

The Figures in the Story.

Before proceeding further it would be well to understand that Mr. Hoganamp is a large Jerseyman, weighing over six feet in height and weighing 200 pounds or more. As for Miss Marie Meyers, she weighs fully as much as Mr. Hoganamp and is almost as tall, but is much more graceful and statuesque. Mr. William White is a little over five feet tall, and if he jumped on the scales real hard he might raise the beam at 120 pounds. This is important, because he is accused of denting Mr. Greenin's skull and of presenting to Mr. Hoganamp probably the most eloquent and conspicuous pair of black eyes ever seen in Jefferson Market Police Court.

First in order comes the recital of Miss Marie Meyers, who is quite an eloquent talker. She occupies with her sister and Mr. White an apartment on the sixth or top floor of the West Twenty-fifth street apartment-house which boasts a day and night elevator and uniformed hall service.

"In the first place," said Miss Marie Meyers, "I have known Mr. Hoganamp for a year and a half. He is the real goods over in Hillsdale, N. J.—chief of the fire department and all that, you know. He used to come over to see me about once a week, and I will say for him that he was a good sport and didn't care for money up to $30 or $40.

His Friend Was Close.

"I have always been real discreet with Mr. Hoganamp and have never said a word over to Hillsdale and visit him as though I was a wealthy woman looking for real estate, as he asked me to do many a time, and every time I wrote him I signed the letter 'Meyers & Co.' for his own protection in case his wife should get hold of it. I never asked him for a cent in my life.

"Mr. Hoganamp came over to call yesterday afternoon on me and my sister Alice, and he brought his friend, Mr. Greenin, with him. Mr. Greenin is a big noise over in Hillsdale, too, but to tell you the truth I never cared much about him, because he is that close with his money that you can see him perspire when he lets go of anything over carfare.

"However, it was a rainy day and we were lonesome, so when Mr. Hoganamp and Mr. Greenin arrived I opened a bottle of Canadian Club right off the reel and put it out on the dining-room table. When the bottle was nearly gone Mr. Hoganamp began to get a grouchy. He had been calling up stables on the telephone trying to get a cab for an hour and couldn't get any and Alice and I absolutely refused to go out and ride in a street car.

Got a Real Grouch.

"So he got grouchy and grouchy, and the first thing I knew he went through the door and pulled the pictures from the walls. Then he went over to the sideboard and with one sweep of his hand knocked all my cut glass on the floor.

"Mr. White, our boarder, heard the crash and our screams and even more protect Alice and me. He said he would call for the police, and Mr. Hoganamp and Mr. Greenin said they couldn't afford to be arrested and would go away. They went away all right, and after they were gone Mr. White got quite inquisitive and said he wanted him to stay in the house, but he insisted upon going out, and he wouldn't even carry the empty Canadian Club bottle like I wanted him to. That's all I know about what happened until they came and arrested me.

Mr. White took up the narrative here. He bears no physical marks of the san-guinary encounter which he describes. "When I got down to the street," said

TWO WORKMEN ELECTROCUTED IN JERSEY TUNNEL

Current Strikes Two Dead in Gang Busy Sixty Feet Below Surface.

Joseph Melino and Bernard Kellogg, young workmen employed in the intake tunnel of the Hudson River Tunnel Company, in Jersey City, were instantly killed by an electric shock sixty feet underground today. The accident happened in the sight of seventy other employees at work in the mud and slime underground.

The intake tunnel is a tunnel about seven feet high, running from the power house of the Hudson Tunnel Company at Washington and First streets, to the North River. The purpose of the tunnel is to convey water from the river to the power house for condensation for steam-raising purposes. It will be 60 feet long when completed and has been bored to within 20 feet of the river front.

Illumination is supplied by electric lights, the current for which is conveyed through a wire running along one side of the tunnel at a distance of about four feet from the ground. These wires carry a low voltage and have been considered harmless by the workmen.

It is supposed that they became induced with the powerful current from the outside today. Melino and Kellogg, carrying a long iron pipe on their shoulders and stumbling over the rough, muddy bottom of the tunnel, stumbled and fell against the wall.

The pipe came in contact with the wires, forming a circuit, which sped through the metal and into the bodies of both men. There was a flash of blue light and a report that attracted the attention of all the workmen, and Melino and Kellogg dropped dead, with the iron pipe across their bodies.

The addresses of the men are not known. The bodies were taken to Hughes's Morgue, in Jersey City.

A Spontaneous Sale of Women's Waists

A merchant plans—prepares a sale of Waists. He asks the manufacturer to "make up" a lot of garments to be sold at certain stipulated prices. The retailer and manufacturer, working together, pinch and scrimp in materials, trimmings, styles and finish—all sorts of slow stuffs are bundled in the sweep-up in order to hold within the agreed price-limit. That's a premeditated sale.

The Waists involved in this movement are the REGULAR products of a maker of whom it is said: "ALWAYS FINER CLOTHS, BETTER TRIMMINGS AND DAIN-TIER STYLES IN HIS WAISTS THAN ANY OTHER AT THE PRICES."

We have just taken over all his unsold balances for quick distribution. Every Waist was made to sustain and enforce his well-known standard of beauty and quality. Not one was thrown together merely to meet the demand of a low price. The money we save you doesn't come by niggling or slighting the Waists. It's a Spontaneous Sale—bringing you irreproachable garments at much less than usual.

Your only worry will be to choose where there are so many styles you like. But go ahead. Don't be afraid. Almost impossible to buy too many of these Waists at the prices.

All these pictures were sketched direct from the Waists and represent values that you'll not find anywhere else.

$1.25 Waists at 69c
Made of sheer batiste, finished with fine tucks, graduated back and front, trimmed with lace, stock collar and cuffs. They are dressier and daintier than the usual $1.25 Waists—and are to be sold at 69c.

$1.50 Waists at 99c
Made of delicate batiste—eleven different styles. Some are tucked all over. Fronts of some are entirely of embroidery. Some have yokes of embroidery medallions and lace inserting. And there are others tastefully trimmed with lace and embroidery. You could pay $1.50 for any one of them and count it good value. Our price, 99c.

$2.25 Waists at $1.29
Made of sheer batiste; many of them are hand-embroidered—others elaborately trimmed with lace. There are one hundred and fifty dozen of these Waists, and not an old style in the lot. All fresh and brightly new.

$2.50 Waists at $1.79
Made of sheer batiste, graceful model, finished with graduated tucks and trimmed with embroidery medallions, lace edging and inserting; turn-down collar set off with lace edging and inserting; trimmed three-quarter length sleeves.

$3.00 Waists at $1.98
Made of mercerized batiste, entire front of handsome all-over embroidery, inserting and Valenciennes lace; lace yoke and collar; back and sleeves effectively trimmed. Any woman who knows Waists knows that $3.00 would be a fair price for these; our price is $1.98.

$4.50 Waists at $2.97
Made of fine batiste or very thin lawn, five just-blown models; some trimmed with embroidery in two-toned effects; some are tucked all over; others show artistic combinations of filmy lace and medallions of embroidery. Their values range from $4.00 to $4.50; choice at $2.97.

$5.00 Waists at $3.96
Made of sheer batiste, four models to select from. Some are trimmed with German Valenciennes lace, others with embroidery. Every one of them was manufactured to retail on a close profit margin at $5.00—possibly $6.00; we will let you carry them off at $3.96.

$2.75 Silk Waists at $1.98
Made of White China Silk; yoke made of Valenciennes and imitation Cluny inserting, combined with tucks, lace inserting below yoke, lace stock collar, trimmed sleeves; usually sold at $2.75; special at $1.98.

$3.75 Silk Waists at $2.97
Made of White China Silk; tailored model, finished with cluster tucks and silk pleats, entire sleeves clusters of tucking, stock collar also tucked.

Two models made of Black China Silk—one style has large tailored pleats, the other has yoke of fine lace insertings—and Striped Taffeta Waists, black, navy or brown in combination with white; open front, graduated tucking, jabot of fine pleating, finished with silk buttons.

$5.00 Silk Waists at $3.96
Three styles made of White China Silk. One has Dutch neck trimmed with bands of Venice lace, another has yoke and collar of imitation Irish lace, fine tucks below yoke. The third is trimmed with fine tucks, Valenciennes lace and imitation baby Irish. All are usually sold at $5.00; special at $3.96.

Eight Hundred Vests That Well Dressed Men Need

Worth $2.50 to $4.50. Choice at $1.44.

That's the point of a very vital Vest venture. Good cloth—duck, pique, cheviot—plain, figured and embroidered—natural and silky mercerized. Flannels, too, serviceable quality in a pleasing variety of fast-color designs.

The Vests have lost none of their vested virtues. They have character, color, quality—but the maker's season end was close and he was anxious to close out. That's the pitb—not the pretext—that permits us to sell you
